To meet the ultralight camper's demands for ever lighter gear, the folk at Big Agnes have gone back to the drawing board and cut down the weight again without sacrificing quality or performance. A couple of ways they have achieved this is by the use of smaller-gauge zippers and 15-denier nylon fly that is really tough because its fibers are double-twisted for added strength. This has enabled the Copper Spur UL 2 to achieve a trail weight of just 3lb 6oz with the packed weight only adding 7oz taking it to 3lb 13oz. At these specifications you may be tempted to take the optional footprint (5oz) along with you to reduce abrasion and damage to the tent floor from sharp objects. An even lower fast fly weight of 2lb 8oz is available.

The Big Agnes Copper Spur UL2 uses the advanced Featherlite NSL pole system from manufacturer DAC, constructed from eco-friendly anodized TH72M aluminum, with press fit connectors and lightweight hubs. This advanced eco-friendly anodizing process eliminates the need for two toxic chemicals and recycles wastewater at the plant. With a single hub/pole design, DAC's twist clips quickly and easily attach the tent body to the pole frame. An H-clip also attaches the tent body to the cross pole.

The fly and floor are both made from ultralight silicone treated rip-stop nylon with a 1200mm waterproof polyurethane coating whilst the tent body is ultralight breathable nylon rip-stop and polyester mesh which offers excellent bug-free ventilation on the warmest summer evening. Loops are ready sewn inside to take the Big Agnes wall gear loft (available separately) for additional storage.

The Copper Spur UL2 has two doors and two vestibules so no there is no crawling over someone else's sleeping area or gear. The two vestibules have a total area of 18sq ft so there is plenty to space to shelter packs boots and other equipment from the weather. Night time visibility has been considered by the manufacturer who has used reflective webbing on the tent corners and included reflective guylines.

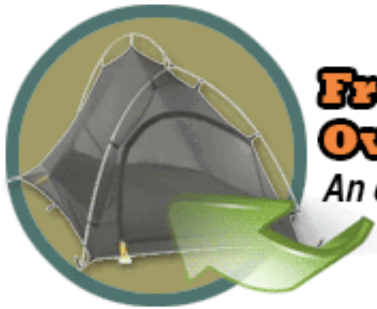

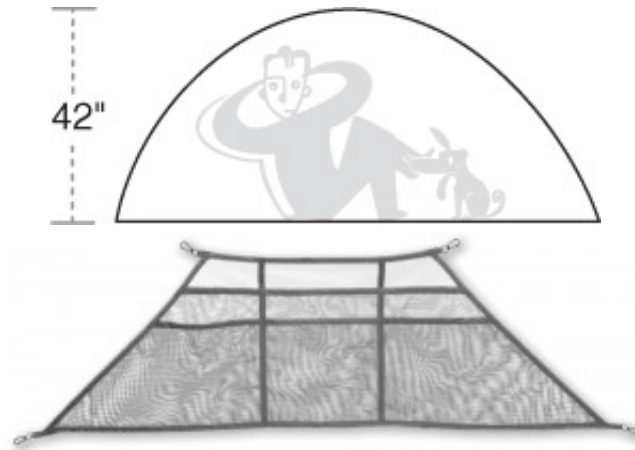

With a floor area of 29 sq ft and a generous head height of 42" this is a really roomy tent you can make yourself at home in. All seams are taped with a waterproof, solvent-free polyurethane and despite packing down to a mere 7" x 22" there are 10 superlight eco-anodized aluminum J stakes included. Further size details can be found at the end of this review.
